

jackal and the sun

Mbwawa naliyava

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons
Attribution 3.0 International License.
<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/3.0>

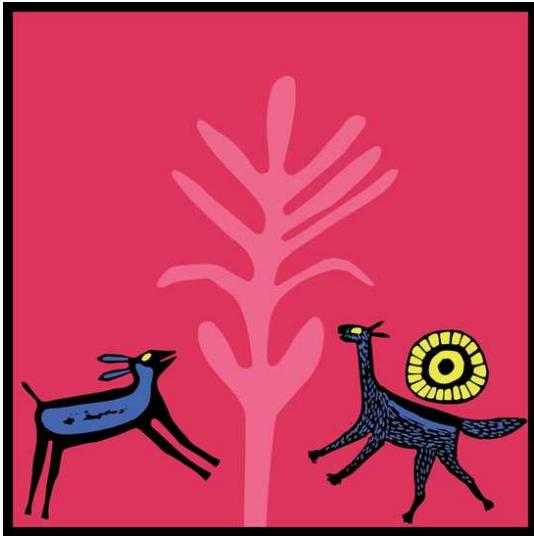

■ Peter Linyando Likoro (diu)
■ Manyeke Arts Trust
■ Traditional San story
the sun Mbwawa naliyava / jackal and

globalstorybooks.net

Global Storybooks

Pakare-kare, kwalire mbwawa wamugova
waudwa. Kwatungire navashe vakukurupa muvishwa vyakalahari.

...

Long ago, there was a foolish lazy jackal. He lived with his old father in the Kalahari bush.

One morning Old jackal woke up to find his son sleeping in the sun. The food was not ready and the goats were still in the kraal. "Young man, you are so lazy! Go and find a wife. I am too old to look after you," said jackal's father. So jackal jumped up and took the goats out to graze.

...

Ngurangura yimwe Mbawa a wambukire
kawana monande ana rara muwii. Ndyia shimpe kapi dina pu kwapayika awo vimpendje
vyavyo shimpe kushinayongo! "Mukafumughona, umudwa unne! Yenda kuka wane ko mukamali.
Ame na kurupupara ngori mukukupakera mbiri," ava ghamba vasehe vambawa. Mbawa kuvatuka
panya nko kukagharura vimpendje

Huki dadipe dakushekunine ruvara nad i damuruu naruntje. Maruvara ghapeke kehe pano ghamuvurukutanga mbawa ashi kapishi naga
kare ligova nka.
The new fur was a different colour to the fur on the rest of his body. The different colours always reminded jackal not to be so foolish again.
...

Muvishwa, a mono shininke shakuvembera police.
A shuwenako ayendi pepi-pepi naliwe. Moomo ana kushilarera papi nauwa washo mo una kukuwederera ngoweyo. Pamwe walye uno kwakalire mukamali kwendi?!

...

In the bush, he saw something shining on a rock.
He went closer and closer to the rock. The closer he got, the more beautiful the shine was. Perhaps this was the wife for him?!

Ene ngoli shitondo shinya ashi para nka shipapa
shapamungo wendi ashi hupara kuruku naliyuva.

...

But the log also scraped the skin and fur from his back and they were left behind with the sun.

Then jackal saw a log across the path. He crawled under the log so that the sun would fall off.

...

Mbwawa a mono shitiondo shina vindama
pandjira. Nko kukoka a pite munada yashitondo mposhi liyuvava ave po pamughonggo wendii.
Vallikoro lyandé vantjuva opo vadirukire. Kapí
vashanine kimpitura. Ni mu pyunene."

"You are beautiful," said jackal to the shine. "But who are you? Why are you alone?" "I am the sun,"

they moved on. They did not want to carry me. I
the shine answered. "My family left me here when
am too hot."

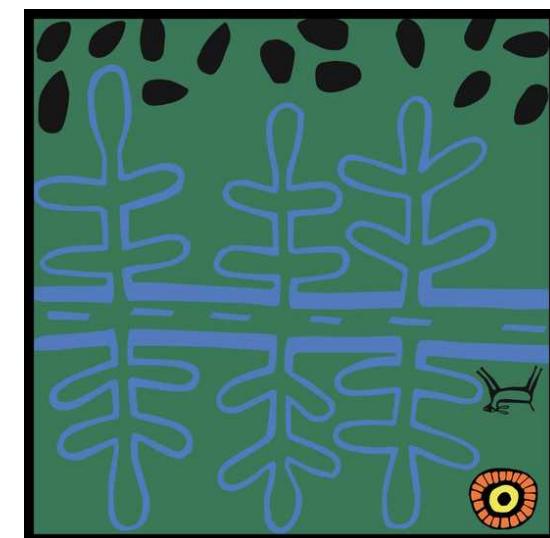

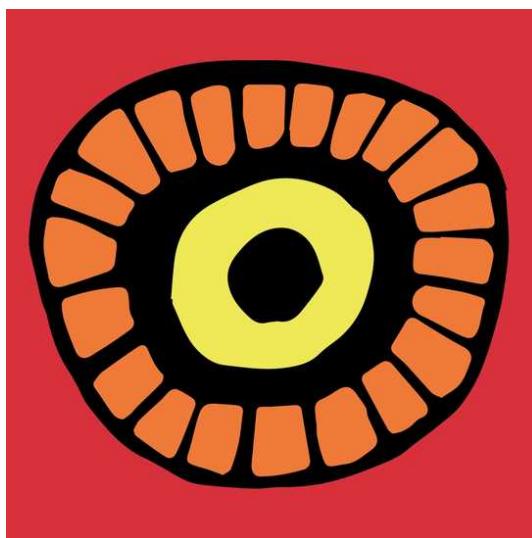

...

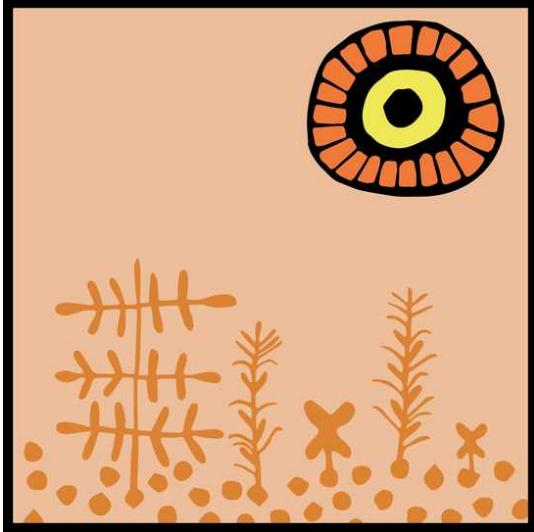

"U muwa," A ghamba mbwawa kuirwedimo. "Ene
mwene ove ne ove nani? Vinke wakareka ko panjoyer?" "Ame liyuvá," Ali limburra lirwedimo.
Vallikoro lyandé vantjuva opo vadirukire. Kapí
vashanine kimpitura. Ni mu pyunene."

"You are beautiful," said jackal to the shine. "But
who are you? Why are you alone?" "I am the sun,"

they moved on. They did not want to carry me. I
the shine answered. "My family left me here when
am too hot."

...

Mbwawa a ghamba, "ene u muwa shiri! Kuna kukushimba. Kuni kutwara kumundi uka mone vavava." "Nawa tupu, kuvhura u ntjimbe. Ene ngoli washa shivana opo ni vareka kuyenya," Ali ghamba liyuba.

...

The jackal said, "But you are so beautiful! I will carry you. I will take you home to meet my father." "All right, you can carry me. But do not complain when I get too hot for you," said the sun.

Mbwawa nko kuvhika Liyuba nakutunda ruyendo rwendi rwakumundi. Kadidi tupu liyuba ali vareke kushora huki dambwawa. "Kuvhura u dumpuke kumughongo wande? Na hepa kupwiyumukako," a ghamba mbwawa. Mughongo wendi una putuka kapi nka a vhulire kuyenda nawa. "toko tukwikire!" Alighamba liyuba. "Na kutantere ashi kapishi u shivane."

...

So Jackal put the sun on his back and started the journey home. Before long, the sun was burning Jackal's fur. "Will you please come down from my back? I need to rest," said Jackal. His back was so sore that he could hardly walk. "Just carry on!" said the sun. "I told you not to complain!"