Tom porta un cesto di banane mature.

Tom va al mercato per vendere
le banane.

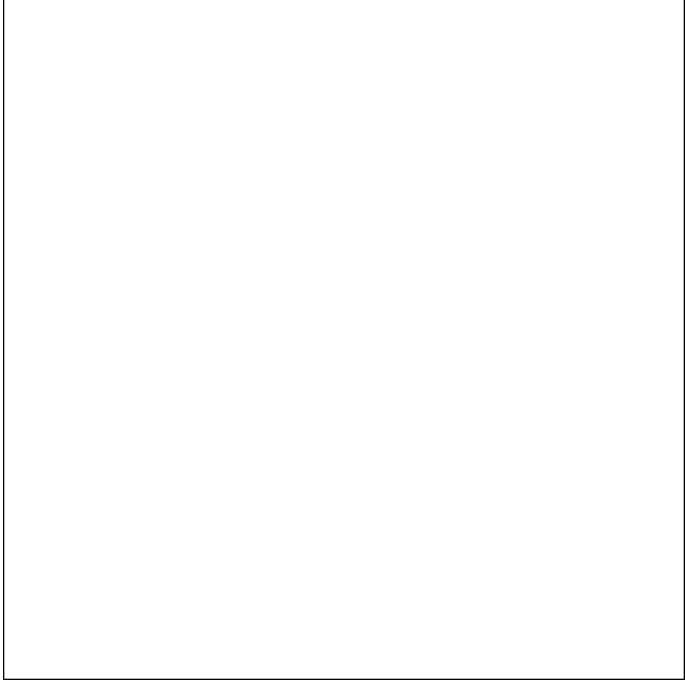

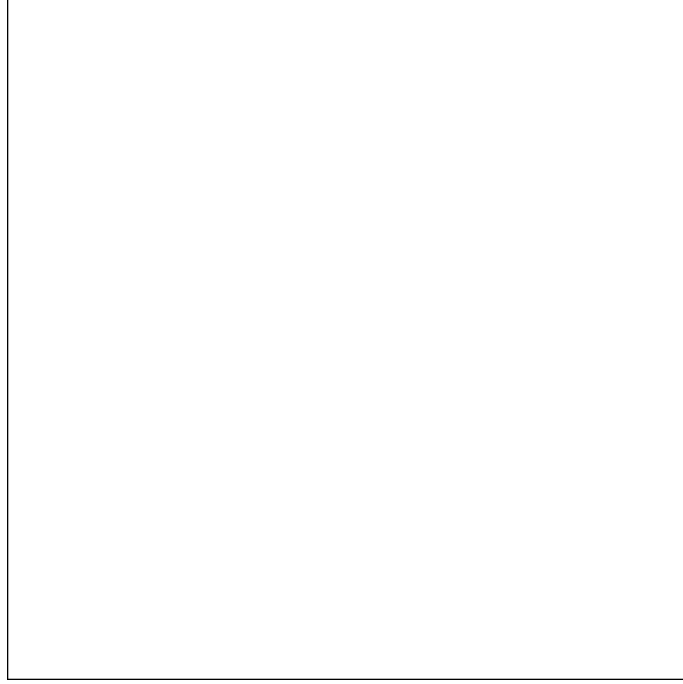

La gente al mercato compra la frutta.

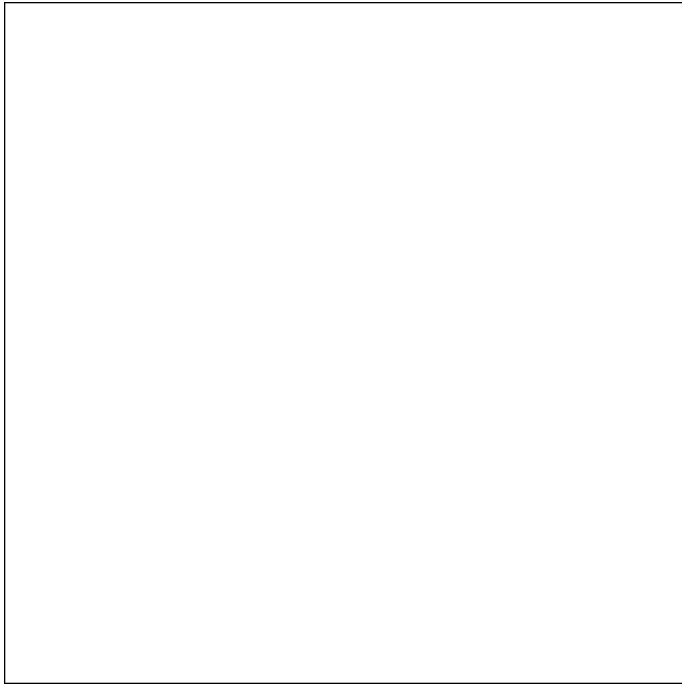

Tom bilancia il cesto sulla sua testa e torna a casa.

Ma nessuno compra le banane di Tom. Preferiscono comprare la frutta dalle donne.

Poi Tom compra sapone, zucchero e pane. Mette le cose nel suo cesto.

“Nella nostra comunità, solo le donne vendono frutta” dice la gente. “Che uomo è questo?” chiede la gente.

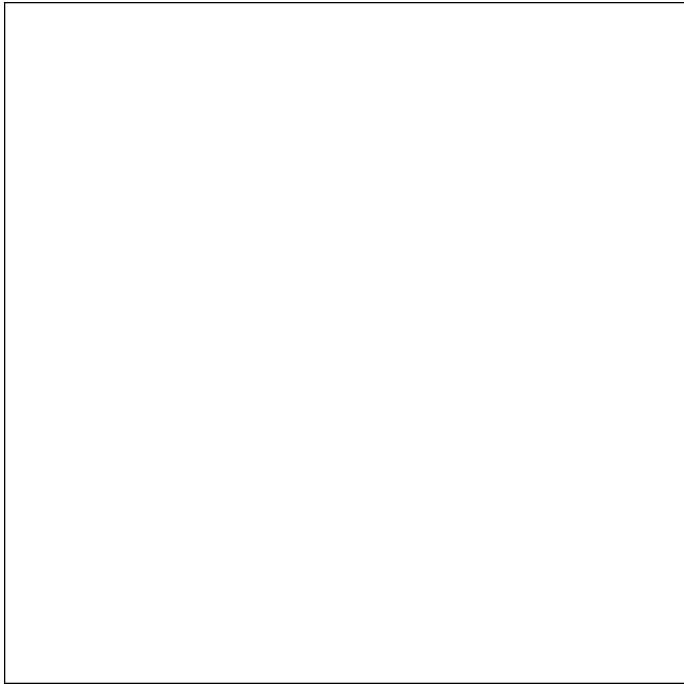

Presto, il cesto è vuoto. Tom conta i soldi che ha guadagnato.

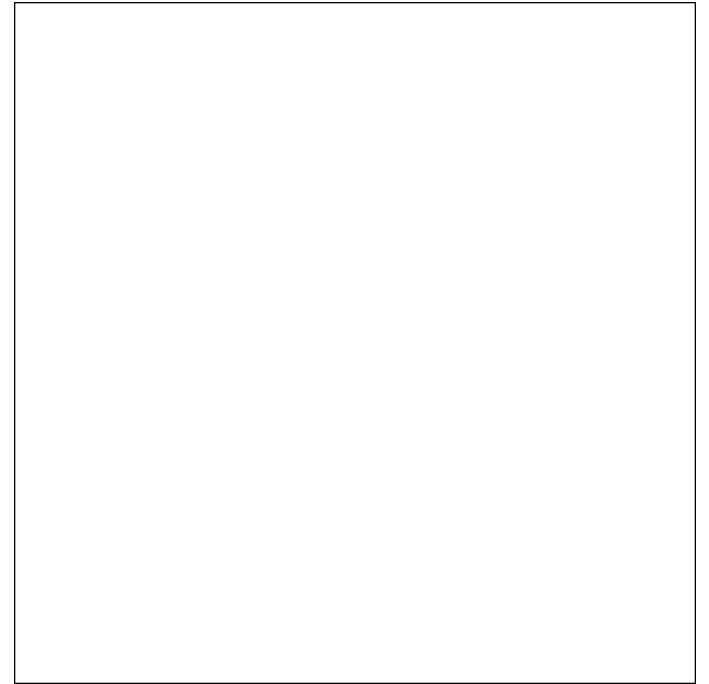

Ma Tom non si arrende. Urla
"Comprate le mie banane! Le mie dolci, mature banane!"

Altra gente va al suo banco.
Comprano le banane di Tom e le mangiano.

Una donna prende un po' di banane dal cesto. Le osserva attentamente.

La donna compra le banane.
